No One's Looking*
Translated from the Polish by Jennifer Croft

Booksellers say:

“I love, love, love this book. These floppy-eared creatures and imaginative illustrations bring life to all the emotions—emotions that sometimes overwhelm young readers. This is a wonderful book for starting conversations about those hard-to-label emotions.” —Jennifer Kraar, City of Asylum Bookstore (Pittsburgh, PA)

Don't miss this July/August Kids' Indie Next List title!

“Terribly adorable illustrations show all kinds of emotions as they live their lives within us. A great first exploration into the realm of emotions for young people and a great reminder for the older set!”

—Sam Coons, Cupboard Maker Books (Enola, PA)

“What Feelings Do When No One's Looking is a lovely book that explores all kinds of feelings—those that are pleasant to feel and those that aren't so much, those that are clear as day and others that are more nuanced. Each feeling is represented as a fun little creature, and the thoughtful sentiments throughout leave room for conversation with young readers. A wonderful way to encourage open dialogue about feelings.”

—Mary Wahlmeier Bracciano, Raven Book Store (Lawrence, KS)
