The CASEL Framework

Kids are faced with tough choices every day. To share or not to share? Try something new, or stick with what I know? When I'm angry, should I reflect or react?

Guided by the Collaborative for Academic, Social, and Emotional Learning (CASEL) Framework, the pick-your-path adventures in this series are designed to help children practice making good decisions in their daily lives. Children can revisit this series time and again to choose different paths and learn critical character-building skills that build social and emotional competencies. Plus, they'll have fun while doing it!
